

VIG Czech Short Term Bond Investment Fund

A series CZK MONTHLY report - 2024 OCTOBER (made on: 10/31/2024)

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The Fund aims to increase the value of its assets under management and to provide investors with a higher yield than Czech bank deposits and short-term bonds over a period of 1 to 2 years. No individual investor's decisions can be made in the Fund. The Fund Manager selects portfolio elements in accordance with the above principles. When making investment decisions, the tools of fundamental analysis and technical analysis are used, and the current market sentiment is also taken into account. The Fund primarily invests in discount treasury bills issued by the Czech State, sovereign bonds, bonds of quasi-sovereign companies, or bonds or deposit-like instruments issued by the Czech National Bank, the European Central Bank or the central bank of another Member State of the European Union. To a limited extent, the portfolio may include government securities, state-guaranteed bonds, corporate bonds (including those issued by financial institutions) and mortgage bonds with at least investment-grade credit rating. Investments may be made in Czech crowns or, to a limited extent, in other currencies. In the case of assets denominated in a currency other than Czech crowns, the Asset Manager shall strive to fully hedge foreign exchange risks (there cannot be a difference of more than 5% between the currency exposure of the derivative transaction and that of the asset to be hedged).

The Fund may enter into deposit and repo transactions, invest – to a limited extent – in units in collective investment undertakings, and derivatives may as well be used (for the purposes of hedging or building an efficient portfolio).

MARKET SUMMARY

The Czech National Bank (CNB) lowered its rate by another 25 basis points to 4.25% in late September, with all but one board member supporting the move. Tomas Holub member of the Bank Board of the CNB advocated for a larger, 50bps cut, highlighting that inflation is currently below target, while economic activity remains below its potential. Core inflation risks persist, particularly due to steady price increases in the service sector. Nevertheless, global growth challenges might present a clear risk to the Czech economic recovery, which may support a case for continued easing.

While third-quarter growth came in slightly weaker than anticipated, the economy remains on track for around 1% growth in 2024. The Czech koruna has experienced limited pressure stemming from global market risks. The CNB is likely to reduce rates by another 25bps at its November meeting, bringing them down to 4%, potentially followed by a pause to evaluate consumer price levels in January, factoring in repricing effects. However, a December pause remains uncertain, particularly if the economic recovery shows further strain.

This month's major news came from international markets: robust, better-than-expected U.S. data and the increasing likelihood of Trump's return as U.S. president sparked a rise in global bond yields, impacting Czech markets as well. Czech short-term bond yields increased by 10-20bps, and our slightly lower duration exposure added positively to performance.
