

VIG Opportunity Developed Markets Equity Investment Fund

I series HUF MONTHLY report - 2024 OCTOBER (made on: 10/31/2024)

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The Fund aims to profit from the returns on global equity market investments through stock prices and dividend income. According to the intentions of the Fund Manager, the bulk of the Fund's portfolio is made up of shares of foreign companies issued through public offerings, but the Fund may also invest in shares issued by Hungarian companies. The proportion of shares that can be held in the Fund at any given time may reach the prevailing legal maximum. The Fund Manager has the option, at its own discretion, of hedging all or part of its foreign exchange risks using forward currency positions subject to observing the applicable legal requirements.

MARKET SUMMARY

The US economy was hit by several headwinds in October. Macro data during the month, such as productivity growth and the downward trend in inflation, confirmed the robustness of the US economy. Better-than-expected unemployment and services data led to a strengthening of the dollar, breaking the previous weakening trend. The overall economic picture is beginning to resemble the coveted soft-landing narrative, which should give rise to optimism in markets. The equity market was driven most by the semiconductor and artificial intelligence sectors, with smaller market capitalization companies tending to move sideways. Oil prices rose earlier in the month on fears of escalation in the Middle East and have since moderated. In the bond markets, yields rose to multi-month highs as both presidential candidates are expected to add to already high government debt. Investors are now mostly looking forward to the presidential election on November 5th, and the subsequent Fed rate decision, of which the outcome will strongly determine the economic outlook. Overall, the euro area economy is growing slowly but steadily, driven mainly by a recovery in external demand. The weakening of the euro against the dollar is also helping export-oriented European companies. Economic growth has been higher in the Central-Eastern European region and Southern Europe, while the German and Baltic economies have tended to stagnate. This disparity is due to different sectoral compositions, with Southern Europe helped by the tourism boom and Central and Eastern Europe by the general catching-up. In the Western region in particular, industrial production has declined, partly due to the global slowdown and high energy prices.

The Fund achieved a positive return in October and outperformed the benchmark index. During the month, we slightly increased our Tesla short position and maintained our cannabis exposure. Until mid-month, the Fund was overweight the benchmark index, but we trimmed this overweight at the end of the month and bought S&P 500 put options. This proved to be a good decision as markets fell nearly 2% at the end of the month. The Fund may be slightly underweight in November as election uncertainties could impact equity markets. The US election could be a watershed for US markets. If Harris wins, it is possible that markets will remain stagnant until the end of the year, but if Trump wins, the rise could last until the end of the year.
