MARKET SUMMARY

In November, the performance of the Polish bonds was surprisingly strong: on the 3-year maturity yields decreased by 29 basis points, on the 5 and 10 year maturities yields decreased by 43 basis points compared to the beginning of the month. We only saw increasing yields on the very short end, yields rose on the 1 year maturity by 47 basis points. The base rate is still at 5.75% and at the rate setting meeting in the beginning of December it was left unchanged as well. Currently the inflation is 4.6% year on year in November according to the preliminary estimates, thus the pace of price increases decreased slightly. Food and energy prices continued to rise, but a decrease was observed in fuel prices. Due to the extension of the energy price freeze, inflationary risks are being pushed further out, prompting the Governor of the Central Bank, Adam Glapiński to emphasize surprisingly in his speech that the rate cut cycle may also begin later, despite the recently weaker macro data. The Purchasing Managers' Index (PMI) fell to 48.9 in November from the previous month's 49.2 arriving below market expectations. Thus the index remained in contraction territory for the 31st consecutive month. New orders declined more significantly, and weak European demand also impacted export orders. Industrial production posted a rise of 4.7% in the tenth month of the year. As for the state budget, the government generated a deficit of 22,503.2 million PLN in the tenth month of the year, bringing the 12-month rolling budget deficit to 5% of GDP.
