

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The Fund aims to share in the returns of the Polish stock market, and to profit from Polish economic growth through stock prices and dividend income. In accordance with the risk characteristics of equity investments, the Fund qualifies as a high-risk investment. According to the Fund Manager's intentions, the bulk of the Fund's portfolio is made up of the shares of foreign companies issued through public offerings. The primary investment targets are the securities, traded on the stock exchange or about to be listed on the stock exchange, of companies that operate in Poland or that derive a significant portion of their revenues from Poland, or whose shares are listed on the Warsaw Stock Exchange. The Fund may also invest in equities of other Central and Eastern European companies (Austria, Czech Republic, Hungary, Russia, Romania and Turkey). When developing the portfolio, the shares determine the nature of the Fund, and thus the proportion of shares that can be held in the Fund at any given time may reach the prevailing legal maximum. The Fund holds more than 30% of its assets in currencies other than the local currency (HUF).

MARKET SUMMARY

The US equity market had an average performance in December, influenced by rising bond yields and mixed economic data. Although the S&P 500 and the Nasdaq index reached new all-time highs, led mainly by the technology sector, the year-end Santa Claus rally did not deliver the expected results. The ISM services sector index showed a solid growth picture, while labor market data indicated a balanced economy. The Fed's 25 basis point interest rate decision in December was in line with expectations, but Powell's speech suggested less rate cuts next year than expected. This caused a sell-off, that markets have not been able to recover from since. Some sectors, such as semiconductors, did not perform well for other reasons, partly explained by market overpricing and sector-specific uncertainties. In Europe, the German DAX index rose to a new high, supported by a favorable yield environment and expected interest rate cuts by the European Central Bank. But the German market also fell back by the end of December, caused by a political crisis like the one in France. The French market was held back by fiscal uncertainty and tensions around political conflicts, in particular a motion of no confidence in the government. Although weak PMI data indicated a slowdown in the Eurozone economy, investment stimulus statements and expected monetary easing improved sentiment in the cyclical sectors.

Polish markets closed December with a sideways slide. The minor upward momentum at the beginning of December faded by the end of the month. The best performers were the toy sector and the healthcare sector. Among the gaming industry players, CD Projekt rose the most, with the release of the Witcher 4 trailer being one of the main catalysts. In contrast, 11 Bit Studios suspended development of Project 8, which led to a further decline in the share price (in September, the share price fell by roughly 70% since the release of Frost Punk 2). In December, Pepco published its quarterly report, which was positively received by investors. The merger of Alior Bank and Pekao Bank was also closely followed by the market, which significantly increased the volatility of the companies' share prices. Orlen, the oil giant, has postponed the presentation of its much-anticipated 2035 strategy until early January. The Fund did not change its equity exposure this month.
