The asset allocation of the Fund, 30.06.2009

Hungarian T-bills	76.62%
Hungarian Government Bonds	12.60%
Government paper repo	2.90%
Current account	0.03%
Other assets	7.85%
Total investment assets	100.00%
Net corrected leverage	9.70%

favorable technical picture, after clearly breaking the 200-day moving average, and it has also broke out downwards from the earlier trading range. The previously oversold HUF government bonds, especially with longer maturity have broken their critical levels, so a strong rally could breed. In addition to the sentiment change, fundamentals are also supporting the forint appreciation and gilt-edge market strengthening: the banking system, so as the state can return possibly to market financing, and decrease the dependence on supranational sources, implying serious chances of a base rate cut in July.
