Market Summary:

Similar to other domestic bond funds the NAVPU of the AEGON Domestic Bond Fund rose massively in July. The yield levels finally started to fall due to the cumulative interest of the institutional investors. The undervalued domestic bond market got also pretty tempting to the foreign investors, since the NBH sent a signal to the market that the rate hike cycle is ended. We saw the real interest in the longer securities, which was extremely gainful for the Fund, since the duration of the portfolio is much longer than the duration of its benchmark. We do expect further yield drops in the future, so the Fund offers a very competitive investment possibility!
