MARKET SUMMARY:

Although credit spreads are only marginally 30-50 bps higher qoq, they hit a 5-month high early June as a string of weak macro data hit sentiment. Bund yields fell to a new low (10y 1,17% on 1 June) and thus compensated for part of the spread widening. Despite the weaker market EM bond fund flows remained robust, we only saw limited outflows only for 3 weeks in May-June. Local assets rallied after the end-of-April settlement of the EC-Hungary dispute but lost some ground then on global worries only to rally again later in the quarter as market sentiment improved generally from June. We saw buyers come in at more attractive spread levels on all of our markets - we see this as time for selective profit taking where prices are nearing ytd highs without fighting the strong momentum. Our fund proved to be resilient in weak markets losing only 0,7% from peak to trough in May/June and produced 2% return in June which meant a 1,21% outperformance.
