MARKET SUMMARY:

The rate cut cycle continued in March but the national bank surprised markets by a 50 bps rate cut versus the expected 25 bps. Communication remained noisy as some members said the easing cycle was "complete" with this cut but the market feels there is room for further easing amid inflation forecasts closer to the lower end of the target band and sluggish economic activity.

The higher than expected rate cut caused some steepening with short yields down 26 bps, the belly 10-15 bps and the long end slightly lower. Steepness remains the only attractive factor, we have a neutral view on the market.
