MARKET SUMMARY:

Polish government bonds were more or less stable this month: yields ended June almost unchanged for the short end and belly, but moved a bit higher for the long end. Yield levels became stretched, after the rally based on the nicely growing tax receipts, supportive global environment and dovish Polish Central Bank. It was especially true for the long end: steepness of the yield curve is much more supportive for regional peers (Romania, Hungary) and the 10Y-5Y yield spread in Poland is significantly lower than the long term average. With core yields close to overbought levels, relatively hawkish statements/comments from big central banks, huge continuous inflows into EM bond funds (that may be a excessive) a weakening of the Polish bonds is on the cards for next months.

With strong growth and tight labour market the current market pricing for the Polish rate path seems to be very optimistic (first rate hike only in late 2018).

Poland has financed 70% of gross borrowing needs by June 2017. With improving tax collection and decreasing deficit, the Polish Debt Management Agency cut back the issuance for the third quarter and announced, that they are not going to hold any auctions in July. It is known, that in next month big redemptions will hit the local market, which altogether with the announcement provided a rally at the end of the quarter. But this rally may be short lived.
