INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND:

The aim of the fund is to provide an alternative solution for those investors who are expecting a decline of the share prices on the Polish Stock Market. In case of declining share prices by its WIG20 short future exposure the fund ensures that the investor will get extra return on his investment. If the fund manager expects that the stock markets will go up than he reduces the option position, but if he sees higher risk in the stock markets than he will buy more put options for the WIG20 Index. Since the capital protection allows the fund manager to buy only limited amount of futures the maximum short exposure of the fund is 100% of the fund's net asset value. Since the fund is a dedicated bearish fund it intends to keep the WIG20 short exposure 20%-40% of net asset value, depends on the strategy of the Fund Manager. To protect the capital, the Fund mainly invests in Polish treasury bills, government bonds and other debt securities. The Fund offers 90% capital protection for the first trading day of the year under special condition. The 90% capital protection is ensured by the investment policy of the Fund, it does not mean a full capital protection.

MARKET SUMMARY:

One of the most important trends in the past month was the further weakening of the Dollar against the Euro. At the beginning of the month, the exchange rate broke through the crucial 1.2 level, and after the ECB's interest rate meeting and Mario Draghi's press conference EURUSD hit over 1.25, which means a more than 3-year low for the American currency. The weakening of the dollar helped the emerging and the US markets, while the European stock markets were somewhat weaker in the last month because of the currency effect, however, at the end of the month the Dollar started to increase slightly, and profit realizers also arrived at the markets. The S&P 500 index has not suffered from a fall of more than 5 percent more than 395 days ago, thus the American stock market beat an other record, the last rise with the same low volatility was in the mid-nineties. The investor's good sentiment was not even broken by the US government shutdown, so as a result of the stronger corporate quarterly results and general market optimism, all the three main US equity indices rose to historic heights in January. The yield of the US ten-year government bond continued to rise this month, thus it hit over a four-year high level to 2.7 per cent, at the end of the month it could bring profit realisation to the US equity market as well.

In January, in line with expectations the European Central Bank did not change the level of the interest rate, while there was a drop in the European exporter companies' price because of the stronger Euro. In Germany, SPD leader Martin Schulz has declared that it will not be a quick German coalition, as the parties could not agree on several issues. The oil price jumped to the a 3-year high level, above 65 dollars per barrel, due to the extremely cold American weather, Iranian tensions, declining stock data, and the statement of the Saudi oil minister that the OPEC-Russia output reduction agreement should be extended after 2018.

In January, on the Polish market, the mid cap papers performed in line with the large cap papers, while the small caps slightly underperformed. At the beginning of the month, the Polish market managed to hit a new local high which attracted investors to the market, but by the end of the month the rise have stopped and the market slipped back into its sideling trend channel. In January, the financial sector proved to be the best sector, while the basic materials and the energy sectors were lagging behind.
