MARKET SUMMARY:

In February, investors focused on the spread of the coronavirus from China to other parts of the world. By the end of the month, the virus was already present in Europe, causing investors to panic and a selling wave swept thru the markets. In the last third of the month, US indices hit new all-time highs, but as the virus spread more and more in Europe, markets began to plummet and most indexes fell to levels not seen since last October. The FED president also highlighted the coronavirus epidemic as a potential risk and threat to the economy and said that they are responding to incoming data, meaning that all decisions are data dependent. The outlook deteriorated significantly in the February ZEW Business sentiment index, which is one of the first to reflect the outbreak after the outbreak, according to European macro data. According to a monthly report from the German Ministry of Finance, the coronavirus epidemic poses a risk to German and European economic activity, but is still holding this year's 1.1 percent growth expectation. This is reflected in the exchange rate of the euro, which reached a new multi-year low against the dollar. The impact of the virus is most visible in the Chinese economy. Caixin China's manufacturing PMI in January was lower than expected at 51.3 to 51.1, but the survey does not yet include a major economic slowdown due to the epidemic. In Hungary, the forint has fallen to a new low against the euro. The MNB did not take 340 level lightly and intervened verbally in the interest of the Forint. As a result, the forint appreciated to the level of 335, but it is not yet known whether this appreciation will be permanent or not. The fund had a negative month in February. Although in the middle of the month the equity weight was cut back to below 50%, due to the sell-off, the fund's value fell further. After the correction, towards the end of the month, the fund's equity weight was increased. On the commodity side, the fund opened a position in oil, which, unfortunately, got stopped out, but realized profit on the previously taken gold position. The fund has opened long positions against the euro, US dollar and zloty.
