INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND:

The fund is intended to serve as a stable, moderately low-risk form of investment, and to offer investors higher returns than bank deposits over the medium term. The portfolio elements are selected in accordance with the above principles. To ensure liquidity, the fund primarily aims to hold bonds and discount treasury bills issued by the State Debt Management Centre on behalf of the State of Hungary, as well as bonds issued by the National Bank of Hungary. The fund has a low risk profile, but its portfolio may also contain forint-denominated debt securities issued by banks and corporations, which are expected to yield a higher return than government securities. The fund may also keep its liquid assets in bank deposits. Besides this, the fund may hold a limited proportion of foreign-currency instruments in its portfolio, but only subject to the full hedging of currency risk. Aegon Domestic Bond Fund must hold minimum 80% of its assets in HUF-denominated bonds issued by the members of European Economic Area.

MARKET SUMMARY:

In November, inflation continued to decline, reaching 2.7% year-on-year. Disinflationary effects intensified in the fall and declining price dynamics will be observed in the last month due to the restrictive measures introduced in early November. According to the Inflation Report published in December, inflation in 2021 could be around 3.5% to 3.6%. The central bank left both the key interest rate and the one-week deposit rate unchanged during the month. It continues its flexible approach to adjust the amount of weekly government bond purchases. During the month, the ÁKK presented the financing plan for 2021, and according to the plan, next year's net financing need will be HUF 3,332 billion (6.8% of GDP). The 2021 issuance will be significantly lower and the 3-year government bond auction will also be cancelled. As a result of the news, the yield curve moved lower, with yields falling by 10-12 basis points at the 5 and 10 year maturities.
