

MARKET SUMMARY

In June, year-on-year inflation accelerated to 5.3%, the fastest rate in almost 8 years. In July, the rise may have eased somewhat, as the central bank started an interest rate hike cycle in June by 30 basis point, and the second increase of another 30 basis point came in July. In addition to the base rate, the overnight deposit and lending rates were also raised, bringing all major interest rate conditions into positive territory. The tightening will not end there, with another 30 basis point increase expected in August. At the meeting, it was also announced that the use of the long-term collateralized lending facility would be discontinued. The yield curve flattened somewhat during the month. Yields on the 3-year maturity ended the month 14 basis points higher, while the 5-year and 10-year maturities ended the month only slightly lower, by around 5 basis points. The government has a huge cash holdings. Asset buying program continues, with the next review likely to take place in early September, which could pose some risk to the long term yields.

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The fund is intended to serve as a stable, moderately low-risk form of investment, and to offer investors higher returns than bank deposits over the medium term. The portfolio elements are selected in accordance with the above principles. To ensure liquidity, the fund primarily aims to hold bonds and discount treasury bills issued by the State Debt Management Centre on behalf of the State of Hungary, as well as bonds issued by the National Bank of Hungary. The fund has a low risk profile, but its portfolio may also contain forint-denominated debt securities issued by banks and corporations, which are expected to yield a higher return than government securities. The fund may also keep its liquid assets in bank deposits. Besides this, the fund may hold a limited proportion of foreign-currency instruments in its portfolio, but only subject to the full hedging of currency risk.

Aegon Domestic Bond Fund must hold minimum 80% of its assets in HUF-denominated bonds issued by the members of European Economic Area.
