

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The fund is intended to serve as a stable, moderately low-risk form of investment, and to offer investors higher returns than bank deposits over the medium term. The portfolio elements are selected in accordance with the above principles. To ensure liquidity, the fund primarily aims to hold bonds and discount treasury bills issued by the State Debt Management Centre on behalf of the State of Hungary, as well as bonds issued by the National Bank of Hungary. The fund has a low risk profile, but its portfolio may also contain forint-denominated debt securities issued by banks and corporations, which are expected to yield a higher return than government securities. The fund may also keep its liquid assets in bank deposits. Besides this, the fund may hold a limited proportion of foreign-currency instruments in its portfolio, but only subject to the full hedging of currency risk.

Aegon Domestic Bond Fund must hold minimum 80% of its assets in HUF-denominated bonds issued by the members of European Economic Area.

MARKET SUMMARY

In September, analysts expect annualized inflation to go above 5% and it is unlikely to fall below this level for the rest of the year. In the September Inflation Report, the central bank revised upwards its inflation expectations for this year to 4.7%, while GDP growth is expected to be between 6.5-7%. Rates were raised again at the September rate decision meeting, but the pace has slowed somewhat, with a 15 basis point increase that will continue to guide the rates for the next month or two. This leaves the base rate currently at 1.65%. In order to reduce interbank forint liquidity, it was announced that the forint liquidity providing fx swap facility would be phased out, and the weekly target for government bond purchases was further reduced from HUF 50 billion to HUF 40 billion. The yield curve moved higher on the back of rising yields in the developed markets and on rising inflation fears. 10-year bond yields rose by almost 27 basis points compared to the beginning of the month. The government continues to hold a huge stock of cash. The EURHUF exchange rate approached 360 again on the back of quarter-end swap market tensions and global risk aversion.
