In addition, the remaining term of the individual securities can be no more than years, or 397 days until the next interest determination date. MARKET SUMMARY

The first month of autumn saw a weakening in the Polish bond market. Yields at all maturities were up by around 30-35 basis points compared to the beginning of the month, mainly due to the rise in yields in developed markets, base rate hikes by regional peers and rising inflationary pressures. According to preliminary data, Poland's year-on-year inflation rate rose further in September, by 5.8% higher than a year earlier. Prices in Poland have not risen at this rate for almost 20 years and are likely to show even higher price dynamics in the coming months. Skyrocketing energy prices pose an upside risk to inflation everywhere and this is likely to have been the main driver of the Polish price rise. In recent months, some in the central bank have already raised the need for a 15 basis point hike and there have even been initiatives to raise the base rate to 2%, but as before, the move has been rejected. According to a Bloomberg survey in September, Polish GDP is expected to grow by 5% in the third quarter. And fourth-quarter GDP growth was revised down slightly from 6.5% to 6.4%. The Purchasing Managers' Index fell to 53.4 points in September from 56 points in August, finishing below market expectations. Industrial production grew by 13.2% in August, slightly below market expectations. As for the general government, the state generated a surplus of PLN 8 113 million in the eighth month, reducing the 12-month rolling budget deficit to 1.16% of GDP.
