

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The fund is intended to serve as a stable, moderately low-risk form of investment, and to offer investors higher returns than bank deposits over the medium term. The portfolio elements are selected in accordance with the above principles. To ensure liquidity, the fund primarily aims to hold bonds and discount treasury bills issued by the State Debt Management Centre on behalf of the State of Hungary, as well as bonds issued by the National Bank of Hungary. The fund has a low risk profile, but its portfolio may also contain forint-denominated debt securities issued by banks and corporations, which are expected to yield a higher return than government securities. The fund may also keep its liquid assets in bank deposits. Besides this, the fund may hold a limited proportion of foreign-currency instruments in its portfolio, but only subject to the full hedging of currency risk.

Aegon Domestic Bond Fund must hold minimum 80% of its assets in HUF-denominated bonds issued by the members of European Economic Area.

MARKET SUMMARY

In October, inflation on an annualized basis could have risen above 6% despite the interest rate hike cycles. Price increases are likely to peak in November and then gradually start to decline. At the October rate decision meeting, the rate hiking cycle continued, with another 15 basis point tightening, leaving the base rate currently at 1.8%. Given the medium-term inflation risks, the rate hikes will continue until inflation stabilizes, so the cycle could continue next year. The purchase of government papers will continue at the current pace and revision of the weekly amount will be in December. The tightening of the interbank forint liquidity continues, with the foreign exchange swap tenders offering forint liquidity in recent weeks not accepting the amounts offered, thus gradually tightening interbank liquidity. This has also had a positive impact on the forint exchange rate, which has managed to strengthen somewhat in recent days, with the EURHUF exchange rate falling below 360. Due to the regional sell-off, the yield curve moved higher during the month. Three-year yields ended the month up 42 basis points, 5-year yields 61 basis points and 10-year yields 69 basis points. The government continues to hold a huge stock of cash. Developed markets are under pressure again, with two US rate hikes already priced in for next year – clearly not supportive for other markets.
