

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The Fund's objective is to establish a portfolio for its Investors that generates positive returns – higher than the yields available on the domestic money market – under all circumstances, i.e. the Fund pursues a “total return” strategy. The Fund seeks to achieve this goal by selecting, through various analytical techniques, the asset classes and investment funds that have the greatest price growth potential and make investments through the purchase of investment units and collective investment securities. The Fund invests primarily in investment funds managed by Aegon Magyarország Befektetési Alapkezelő Zrt., but may also purchase other investment funds and collective investment securities in its portfolio for diversification purposes or if the given asset class is not yet covered by the Fund Manager's funds. In order to ensure liquidity, the Fund may hold in its portfolio discount treasury bills and government bonds issued by the Government Debt Management Agency (ÁKK), interest-bearing securities guaranteed by the Hungarian State, and bonds issued by the MNB. As the range of possible investments includes investments denominated in foreign currency, ETFs and investment units, the Fund's investors may also bear some foreign exchange risk. According to the Fund's investment policy, it invests or may invest more than 80 percent of its assets in investment units or other securities issued by a collective investment undertaking. However, the Fund does not intend to hold more than 20% weight in any one investment fund, except for the Aegon Money Market Fund, Aegon Domestic Bond Fund, Aegon MoneyMaxx Total Return Fund, Aegon Alfa Absolute Investment Fund, Aegon Bondmaxx Absolute Return Bond Fund, Aegon Maraton Active Mixed Fund, Aegon Panoráma Derivative Fund and Aegon ÓzonMaxx Absolute Return Fund, the weight of which may be as much as 100% within the Fund's portfolio.

MARKET SUMMARY

In January, investors almost completely forgot about what has been weighing on their investment decisions over the past two years. It seems that the Omicron variant of the Covid virus, although spreading much faster, has a much weaker impact on humans than previous variants. The strain on the health infrastructure is not as great and the mortality rate is significantly lower. This was good news, because it meant that investors could finally focus on the things that would affect the long-term course of the economy. It was a cold shower for the markets that after the rate decision meeting in January, Fed Chairman Jay Powell stated in the strongest possible terms that now the Fed's leaders could see that their inflation expectations of last year had not been met, that inflation was significantly higher than they had expected and that they would therefore do everything possible to bring inflation down to the Fed's preferred level in 2022. The chairman outlined a plan that caused panic in the markets. According to these plans, the tapering would be drastically accelerated and interest rates would be raised as early as March. This was not well received by the markets and investors suffered the worst January sell-off ever. The ECB is facing similar problems to the US Federal Reserve. Inflation is already significant factor in Europe, but the ECB is reluctant to raise interest rates. What has been a particular problem over the past month is that energy prices have soared. This is affecting the performance of the economy, but the biggest problem is that the inflation figures remain very high. The Hungarian National Bank continued to raise interest rates in January in response to the high inflation figures. The base rate was increased by 50 basis points to 2.90% while the one-week deposit rate was raised by 30 basis points to 4.30%. The EURHUF exchange rate finally reacted to the continuous rate hikes, falling from 370 to 352.

The fund achieved a positive return in January. All of the fund's investments generated positive returns last month. Alfa generated the highest returns followed by Panorama, but Marathon and Moneymaxx also contributed to the positive returns.
