Aegon Russia Equity Fund

MONTHLY report - 2022 JULY (made on: 07/31/2022)

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

The objective of the fund is to get a share of the yields of the Russian equity market, and to benefit on the Russian economy growth through equity rates and dividends incomes. In accordance with the risk features of the equity investments, the fund is considered as a high-risk investment. According to the intentions of the Fund Manager, the portfolio of the Fund is predominantly formed by equities publicly issued by foreign companies. Primary targets of investment are the equities of companies listed on the stock that operate in Russia or countries of the former Community of Independent States or make most of their revenues in those countries. When establishing the portfolio, the equities determine the nature of the fund, so the ratio of equities in the fund may reach the legal maximum at the time. The fund registers its assets in Hungarian Forint. The Fund Manager is entitled to cover part of all the curreny risks with forward currency positions, while complying with the effective legal provisions.

MARKET SUMMARY

In Russia, the conversion and cancellation of depositary receipts (GDRs) listed on foreign stock exchanges has started, which has exempted a number of companies from the cancellation requirement, so that shares in these companies may continue to be available on the London and overseas markets. However, state-owned or strategically important companies have not been exempted, so that in the case of Gazprom, Sberbank and Lukoil, among others, the conversion of GDR instruments into local shares is mandatory for all investors. According to the custodiant's information, the possibility of cancellation of DR and conversion to local paper has been reinstated and they have indicated that they will not charge a fee for the month of July, promising further information for the rest of the period. This notification was sent for the following DR paper: (Magnit, Lukoil, Mobil Telesystems, Novatek, Gazprom). The conversion of GDRs has started, so far the DR for Sberbank shares has been cancelled and replaced by local paper. The conversion for the remaining DR securities has not yet been completed.

In theory, access to the converted and Russian local market shares will be possible after the opening of the market for foreign investors, about which the Moscow Stock Exchange has published a detailed presentation. Only foreign investors will be able to trade on this platform, and the proceeds from the sale will be placed in a so-called "S-account". Due to current capital restrictions, there is still no information on whether withdrawals from the so-called S-account will be possible in the future. Similarly, there is still no precise information on which stock exchanges investors from "friendly" countries will have access to, or whether there will be any Russian operators able to access the market for foreigners. This may be important in terms of balancing the two Russian stock markets, which will operate in parallel in the future, as while the Russian local investor market is dominated by buyers (companies, sovereign wealth funds), the market expected to be created for foreign investors is more likely to see substantial liquidity after market opening rather than buying due to regulatory and legal constraints. However, as a result of the latest EU sanction packages, the launch of the dual market has not yet taken place, and we understand that this is unlikely to happen in the near future. In July, the Fund Manager participated in an investor conference organized by the Moscow Stock Exchange, where the previously stated position of the Russian Central Bank was reiterated that friendly and non-friendly countries do not trade on the same market - therefore a solution is being sought to open trading in non-friendly countries. According to their information, further news is expected in September.
