MARKET SUMMARY

The Fund Manager has taken a strategic decision to close the Fund. The winding-up procedure of the Fund was initiated on 11 November 2022. Following the closure procedure, the Custodian, with the assistance of the Distributor, will pay for the units into the cash account linked to the client's securities account containing the units. The payment will be made at the earliest on 1 December 2022, following the Fund's termination procedure and the audit of the termination report, on the basis of the exchange rate on 24 of November. During November, the Fund achieved a positive return but underperformed the benchmark index. The underperformance was due to the Fund being prepared for liquidation during the month, which meant that the Fund was underweight the benchmark index given the market liquidity opportunities. The Turkish equity market continued to soar this month, with high inflationary pressures continuing to drive local investors to the stock market as they sought shelter to hold their savings in real terms. The Turkish lira managed to remain stable during the month, presumably driven by support from state operators, as well as a lack of foreign investors and the difficulty of shorting TRY. Meanwhile, Turkish macro risk remains unchanged in the Turkish economy. As the country prepares for elections next year where President Erdogan aims to retain his power, politicians have an interest in maintaining economic stability. At the same time, the base rate has been cut by a further 150 basis points and currently stands at 9%, while annual inflation is already above 85%. Uncertainty about the consequences of unorthodox economic policy remains high and macro risks have increased.
