

INVESTMENT POLICY OF THE FUND

MARKET SUMMARY

In December, US inflation fell further to 7.1% from the expected 7.3%. This was seen as a positive by investors, as the pressure on the US Federal Reserve to raise interest rates in this cycle has been reduced. Although in December the Fed raised its benchmark rate by another 50 basis points to 4.5%, the weaker inflation data means there is a chance that they will stop raising rates sooner than previously thought. As a result, the dollar weakened to a 6-month low against the euro.

In China there has been a radical turnaround in the handling of the Covid epidemic. The previous zero-tolerance has been reversed, Covid restrictions have been relaxed, PCR tests are no longer required to use public transport in many cities and in many places citizens who test positive can recover at home. The Chinese premier said that the policy of economic opening now underway would be maintained, with further steps to come. China's top health official said the current outbreak of the omicron was no more serious than the flu and the relaxations were justified. Macro data in the coming months will show how badly the Chinese economy has been damaged by the Covid outbreak.

Inflation in Hungary remains extremely high. According to official data from the Hungarian Central Statistical Office, inflation was 22.50% in December, a multi-decade high and the highest in Europe. During the month, the MNB did not change the base rate and the forint was stable against the euro. It seems that Hungarian interest rates are now high enough to prevent the forint from weakening further. On the last day of the year, one euro was worth 400 forints.

Tempo portfolios fell in the final month of the year. Bond markets reversed their November performance and ended the month lower, with Hungarian bond issues falling more and US bonds less. Accordingly, the average maturity cut at the very beginning of December performed well, with the RMAX, an index of shorter-dated Hungarian instruments, closing in positive territory. Absolute return funds held by portfolios performed mixed. The sale of very low-weight Russian equity exposure held by the funds was not possible during December as a result of the bans. A decision was taken at the end of the month to shorten the maturity structure of the bond exposure.
